LEARN FOR LIFE

General Interest Courses

“Daughters of Faith: Women and Religion”

Dr. John Cappucci

*The Stephen A. Jarislowsky
Chair in Religion and Conflict*

This course examines the historical experiences and contemporary challenges faced by women in several world religions. In this course, learners will explore the depiction of women in scripture, informal and formal roles of women, and the attempts to reconstruct these religions in an egalitarian fashion. This is an introductory course and no prior knowledge of the topic is required. There are no textbooks required for the course. Students who successfully complete the course will receive a certificate of achievement signed by the instructor and principal.
